THE ROYAL FUNERAL.

Alexander III Finally Laid to Rest with His Fathers.

THOUSANDS WERE TURNED AWAY.

Immense Crowds Who Had Been Waiting to View the Czar's Body for the Last Time Unable to Gain Admittance to the Cathedral.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—The funeral of the late Alexander III took place today in the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. Immense crowds who had been waiting to gain admission to the cathedral to view the czar's body for the last time were turned away. Since the first day of the lying in state there has been no diminution in the number. So great have been the crowds and so intense their desire to get into the cathedral that there have been some regretable scenes of disorder. The police were unable to control the masses, and so violent was the pressure at times that lamp posts and trees were knocked down. Many persons have been badly hurt by the crushing.

The funeral arches and other signs of mourning have multiplied from hour to hour. The streets of the city look as if they were cut out between solid walls of black and white. Black framed portraits of Alexander III are seen in hundreds of windows. The streets near the route, already crowded before daybreak, had become wholly impassible by noon, when all traffic in the adjacent districts was stopped, and the way was cleared for the procession.

Seventy foreign princes attended the funeral. The space is so limited that the embassy staffs were unable to enter the cathedral. On the occasion of the funeral 25,000 of St. Petersburg's poor were provided with free dinners.

The mourning will last one year. The czar and grand dukes will be in full mourning to the end of that period. The czarina and the grand duchesses will be in full mourning for three months. At the close of every third month of the remaining nine they will lay aside part of their mourning, thus resuming gradually their usual habits. High Russian officials are required to keep their rooms and houses draped for a year.

The Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, in which the remains of the late czar are laid, was originally built by Peter the Great in 1703. It is often called the Fortress church, because it stands within the fortress which was built on the island by Peter of Petersburgsky. Beneath the pavement are great vaults in which all the Russian sovereigns since the foundation of St. Petersburg lie buried, with the exception of Peter II, who died at Moscow and was interred there. Overhead in the church magnificent monuments mark the sites of the graves. The interior of the church is covered with banners and other military trophies captured in the various wars waged by Russia.

Externally the most remarkable feature of the building is the slender and elegant pyramidal spire springing from the four corners of the cupola at the western end. The summit of the cross, which surmounts it, is 371 feet above the ground level. In the gilding of the spire twenty-two pounds weight of pure gold are said to have been employed.

The portress which contains the mint as well as the cathedral is now used as a state prison. The remainder of the island is mostly built and is the refuge of the poorer officials and the better class of workingmen. Its northern part, separated from the main island by a narrow channel, bears the name of Apothecaries' Island, and is occupied by a botanical garden.

Sent to Jail for Forgery.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 19.—Edward Dolan was sent to jail by Mayor Applegate charged by Thomas Hoff, the West Jersey Railroad company's station agent, with forgery in raising the figures of a note. The note was originally for $10.50, and was given to Dolan by Edward Crawford. Dolan, it is charged, raised the figures to $12 and then got Mr. Hoff to cash it. Dolan admitted altering the note, but said that he did it to get even with Crawford, who owed him more than it called for.

Assaulted a Sick Man.

LEBANON, Pa., Nov. 19.—James Linhurst, a veteran of the war, is under arrest here charged with assault and battery with intent to kill Daniel J. Condran, who is lying ill at his residence. Linthurst was intoxicated and evidently in a frenzy. He threw himself upon Condran, grasped him by the throat and threatened to kill him. With the greatest difficulty he was dragged from Condran's prostrate form and the making of the information followed.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE OHIO MILITIA TRAGEDY.

The Mayor of Washington Court House Upholds the Coroner's Verdict.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Nov. 19.—The mayor, in support of the coroner's verdict in the recent firing upon a mob, has sent a strong letter to Governor McKinley in which he asks him to come to Washington Court House to investigate personally the charges of murder against Colonel Coit and Sheriff Cook. The mayor writes that Colonel Coit, who commanded the militia Oct. 17, would have been in no danger whatever if he had obeyed the summons of the coroner and came to Washington to testify. He insists that there was no mob, and the people of Fayette county have done nothing whatever to authorize such stories as have been started by Colonel Coit and his friends.

The mayor asserts that there were not exceeding twenty-five persons in the court house grounds, and most of them were boys, when Colonel Coit ordered the soldiers to fire. The people of Fayette county were opposed to lynching, and had so declared repeatedly that day. Colonel Coit made a mistake in shutting himself and the troops up in the court house, and imagining that the boys outside constituted a mob, and firing through the doors without warning to innocent spectators and those passing along the street. He says if Colonel Coit had been outside and seen the crowd he would never have fired on it. The mayor insists that there never was any cause for firing.

Another Armenian Massacre Reported.

VIENNA, Nov. 19.—A letter has been received here from Smyrna reporting that Zeki Pasha, a Turkish marshal, with a detachment of Nizams and a field battery, massacred 2,000 Armenians at Sassun. The bodies of the dead remain unburied, and their presence has caused an outbreak of cholera. Many Christians are reported to have fled by secret paths across the Russian frontier. Numerous appeals have been made by the Armenians to the British foreign office. The last appeal received says that the Armenians do not wish any more of their territory to be annexed by Russia, but if Great Britain is unable to help them they will be compelled to look to Russia, under whose yoke they would be better off than under the yoke of Turkey.

Bread Riot in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—A large detail of police was called out to quell a bread riot in the city hall. Two hundred and fifty discharged employes of the water department gathered about the comptroller's office and demanded the wages due them. The comptroller sent a clerk to inform the men that there was no money in the city treasury to pay them. Instantly the crowd became riotous. Cries of bread and threats of instant vengeance were howled forth by the angry crowd, and the comptroller gathering his clerks barred the doors to his office and sent a hurried call for policemen, who dispersed the mob after some difficulty.

"I Have Killed My Love."

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Richard Leach, 30 years old, a florist, who lived with his reputed wife, Mary Hope Newkirk, at 442 West Forty-ninth street, killed her early yesterday morning and then tried to end his own life by cutting his throat with the same weapon, a small penknife. The man will probably recover. The first known of the crime was when Leach appeared at the police station bleeding from a wound in the throat. "I have just killed my love," he moaned continually. He was locked up.

Akapless Warriors Subdued.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—A dispatch from Grand Bassam, Upper Guinea, states that the French have captured the stronghold of the Akapless natives without loss. Some of the Akapless warriors recently killed fifteen negroes at Krinjabo. A French force attacked the natives and killed many of them. The French lost one killed and many wounded. A French punitive expedition was then sent against the natives, and the above dispatch shows that their mission has been successful.

Rescued the Child, May Die Himself.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Stella Durbin, aged 5 years, was playing with a box of matches in the street at Plymouth when she set her dress on fire. The flames in a second enveloped her, and she ran screaming down the street. John Space, a miner, who was near by, picked up the child and dashed to a pile of sand, into which he plunged her and extinguished the flames. Space was horribly burned, and may die. The child will recover.

Professor Smith's Fortune.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—Rev. Henry Preserved Smith, of Lane seminary and Presbyterian fame, came into formal possession of a fortune Saturday. Recently his mother died at Dayton, O., and on Saturday her will was probated. Her property, exclusive of bequests aggregating $15,000, is willed equally to each of her four children. Her estate is estimated at $300,000.

THE EARTHQUAKES IN SICILY.

Seventy-five Lives Known to be Lost and Many People Injured.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The earthquakes in Sicily and southern Italy caused considerable damage to the telegraph lines, and details of the phenomena are coming to hand slowly. It is known, however, that the province of Reggio di Calabra suffered the most severely by the seismic disturbances. Seventeen communes were involved in the disturbance, the centers of which were in the vicinity of Palmi, twenty-one miles northeast of Reggio and Bagnara, on the Gulf of Gioja, almost opposite Punta del Faro, Sicily.

The village of San Procopio, near Palmi, was almost entirely destroyed. Here sixty persons were killed. Forty-seven of these met their death in a church, to which they had fled for refuge. Their bodies are still in the ruins. At Bagnara seven persons were killed. Eight lost their lives at Mamertino and San Eufemia, being crushed to death, while many others were injured. The inhabitants of these places are obliged to camp in the open air. In the Calabrian towns of Triparni and Mileto many houses were destroyed and a number of persons injured.

Much damage was also done in the adjacent province of Catanzaro. The residents of Messina were in a condition of panic last night. They were in great fear of a renewal of the shocks, and passed the night camping out in the squares of the city, in railway carriages and on board vessels in the harbor. The panic has lessened today, and in some instances the work of repairing damaged buildings has already commenced. Large electric lights have been erected to illuminate the channel until the lighthouse destroyed by the earthquakes shall have been rebuilt.

Renewed shocks were felt Saturday and yesterday at Milaseso, eighteen miles west of Messina. So severe were the movements of the earth that great seams appeared in the walls of many houses. The inhabitants of this place are still badly frightened, and remain camped in the open spaces, fearing to return to their homes. No further shocks have been reported from other places.

Terrorized by a Dynamiter.

BUFFALO, Nov. 19.—The isolated town of Andover, in Allegheny county, has been treated to an experience in the past three days which has practically put the place under martial law. Early Friday morning the big frame building used by Charles Cockran as a storage warehouse was blown up by dynamite. At noon carpenters at work on the house of L. C. Van Vleet found a stick of dynamite attached to a half burned fuse under the house. Yesterday Harrison Bundy found a stick of dynamite and a half burned fuse on the floor of his barn. Andover is in a state of terror.

A Noted French Editor Dead.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—M. Francis Magnard, editor-in-chief of The Figaro, is dead. He was 58 years old. M. Magnard was born in Brussels, but went to France at an early age. He became a contributor to The Gaulois and The Causchie, and in 1862 entered the employ of The Figaro, of which paper he became editor-in-chief in 1876. Under his direction the paper soon attained a high degree of prosperity, and became noted by its many subscriptions for charitable purposes.

To Settle the Mexican Boundary Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The appointment of Senor de Leon, of Guatemala, as special envoy to settle the Mexico-Guatemala boundary trouble, which has caused frequent reports of war, is likely to end the difficulty at an early day. The officials of these two governments have been advised of Senor de Leon's appointment, and they expect him to go direct to the City of Mexico.

Barred by the National League.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The National League baseball officials issue a manifesto declaring A. C. Buckenberger, William Barnie and Fred Pfeffer ineligible to be employed in any capacity by any club organization operating under the national agreement, and suspending them indefinitely. This action is on account of their activity in the formation of a rival organization.

Regrets Her Hasty Marriage.

DENVER, Nov. 19.—Miss Gertrude Hutchins, granddaughter of Commodore Hutchins, who eloped with and married Clarence W. Clark, an adventurer, last Monday after a two days' acquaintance, has, at the solicitations of her friends, taken steps to obtain a divorce. Clark is in jail on a charge of larceny.

Became Blind in Uncle Sam's Service.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 19.—William Tegethoff, the inventor of the shell extractor on the old Springfield rifle, died at his home in this city last evening. He lost his sight in the service of the government, and has tried, to no avail, for over fifteen years to get some remuneration for his invention.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing, an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia; radical cures in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

THE COOK GANG AT BAY

The Outlaw's Capture or Death Now Considered Certain.

CHEROKEE BILL BADLY WOUNDED.

Two of His Followers Safe in Jail at Muskogee—Bill Cook Sends a Threatening Letter to United States Attorney Jackson.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Nov. 19.—Deputy Marshall McGill and a posse had a fight Saturday with three of the Cooks. One marshal was wounded, Cherokee Bill fatally shot and his horse killed, and two others of the gang arrested. Cherokee Bill is the fiercest one of the gang, and is one of its main supports. The government has set a price of $.50 on his body. Two suspects were brought in and put in jail.

One of the two bandits captured during the fight was brought here by Marshal Cobb. His information from the fighting ground is that Cook's band is surrounded, and can only escape by fighting their way through the deputies' lines, which, it is not believed, they can succeed in doing. Marshal Cobb believes, however, that there will be another bloody fight. Cook's capture or death is now considered certain.

United States Attorney Jackson has received a letter from Bill Cook threatening to kill him if he makes any further attempt to exterminate the gang. The force of deputies under Deputy United States Marshal McGill were equipped by United States Attorney Jackson, at his own expense, and the citizens here are loud in their praises of him. His instructions to them were to remain in the field until the gang were either captured or killed. It was this force that surprised the bandits under Cherokee Bill and made the valiant fight reported. Cherokee Bill has not yet been captured, although late reports say he will surely be, together with the force he has been leading.

The report that Cherokee Bill was badly wounded in the battle with the deputies has been verified by dispatches to United States Attorney Jackson. A battle is certain, and now that Cherokee Bill is badly wounded and away from the main gang it is safe to predict a victory.

At a secret meeting of Muskogee business men $1,000 was subscribed for the defense of the Cooks. Ex-Indian Agent Leo E. Bennett was placed in command.

The town is guarded by armed men both day and night. Scouts are placed in the suburbs to watch the movements of Bill Cook and his men. All suspicious persons found in the town are to be arrested on sight. If any resist arrest he is to be shot down. The streets are filled with armed guards, and this show of force has evidently impressed the outlaws.

The first suspicious character who attempts to enter the bank will be shot before he crosses the threshold.

Evidently a Case of Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The prevailing impression in this city regarding the gigantic insurance swindle which resulted in the arrest in Boston of Herman Mudget, otherwise known as H. H. Holmes and a variety of other aliases, is that the corpse found in the Callowhill street house, and upon which the $10,000 were obtained, was not a bogus corpse, but was in reality that of the beneficiary, B. F. Pitzell, and that he was murdered by Holmes. This is the belief not only of the detectives of the Fidelity Insurance company, which was so cleverly victimized, but of Superintendent of Police Linden and the coroner. They think that the confession made by Holmes last night, detailing the conspiracy, was a ruse to avert the theory of his having made away with the man who for eight years was his partner in crime. Mrs. Pitzell, wife of the victim, or conspirator, was arrested today.

The Doctors Endorse It.

At a regular meeting of the Genesee County (N. Y.) Medical Society, the physicians of the county passed a vote of thanks for samples of Gilmore's Aromatic Wine, which had been presented to the society, and said that they recognized the remedy as being adapted to a large class of summer diseases. Physicians everywhere recommend this excellent medicine, especially to their lady patients. Sold by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness."—Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 752 New St., Camden, N. J. 25c. FITZSIMMONS' VICTIM BURIED.

The Pugilist Will Undoubtedly Stand Trial for Manslaughter.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 19.—The funeral of "Con" Riordan, who died Saturday morning after having been knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons on Friday night at the Grand Opera House in this city, was held at the undertaking rooms of James Mullin & Son. It was attended by the members of the Fitzsimmons Variety company and a large number of sporting men. The services were conducted by Rev. A. S. Durston, secretary of the local Young Men's Christian association.

The pallbearers were Fitzsimmons, Joe Dunfee, "Yank" Sullivan, Dick Whittle, Edward Forrest and Captain Glori, manager of the Fitzsimmons company. At the conclusion of the services the body was taken to the vault at Oakwood.

Lawyer Emanuel Friend, of New York, arrived in town yesterday. He is Fitzsimmons' counsel and will look after his interests in the case. Fitzsimmons, who is out on $10,000 bail, left for Boston with the Fitzsimmons company last night. He will return for the inquest, which will be held on Thursday evening next. Lawyer Friend told a reporter that in his opinion it would take expert testimony to get at the exact cause of Riordan's death. He felt sure that Fitzsimmons would be indicted and tried for manslaughter, but would be acquitted.

While Fitzsimmons and members of his company claim that the knockout blow was a very light tap, and that Riordan's death was mainly due to his excessive drinking habits, he being strongly under the influence at the time of the bout, Dr. Totman, who attended the stricken man, says it was caused by something more serious than drinking.

Fitzsimmons has received a telegram from James J. Corbett offering financial aid in his present difficulty.

Would-be Train Robbers Thwarted.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 19.—Shortly after midnight an attempt to hold up passenger train No. 5 on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley road at Panther Run, Miss., was balked by the coolness of Engineer F. A. Honer. Panther Run is a small way station. Soon after nightfall half a dozen strange men entered the hamlet and hung around for an hour or two. Then they disappeared and were not seen again until the train had stopped and was starting out, when one of them appeared on the track ahead, signaling the engineer to stop. Engineer Honer pulled out the throttle and sent the train through. As it passed the signal light half a dozen unmasked men stood there, revolvers in hand, and all took shots at the engineer. Fireman Cole received a bullet through the arm and is seriously wounded. The men were evidently new at the business.

Champion Cyclists Arrive.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Mr. Willis B. Troy, manager for A. A. Zimmerman, the cyclist, was a passenger on the steamer New York yesterday. He was accompanied by a number of crack bicyclists, who will take part in the meet at the Madison Square garden, this city. Among the number were: A. C. Edwards, champion of England; Luigi Colombo, champion of Italy; Adrian Guerry, champion of France; Mr. Verheyen champion of Germany, and Lucien Lesna, champion of Switzerland.

Foul Play Suspected.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Several weeks ago John J. Duff, a prominent liquor merchant of Minersville, wandered away from home and all efforts to find him were unavailing. Friday night his dead body was found in the Schuylkill river at Auburn, and it was brought home Saturday. Foul play is suspected. Duff was one of the most prominent politicians in Schuylkill county. He was about 34 years of age and leaves a family.

A Well-Known Railroad Man Dead.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—William T. Tustin, general auditor of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, died yesterday at his residence at Mount Washington, a few miles from this city. He was 59 years old. He served in the Confederate army, and after the war engaged in business in New York. He entered the railway's service in 1871 and was made general auditor in 1881. He was connected with numerous religious and social organizations.

Denver's Strangling Mystery.

DENVER, Nov. 19.—The city detectives have arrested Frank Rock, a French Canadian, who lives in a small house in the alley in the rear of the Market street row where the three murders were committed, on suspicion of being the "strangler." Rock has been associated largely with the French-Marqueaux who infest Market street. He is married and has been employed as a roustabout in a market.

Not a Candidate for Speaker.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 19.—Representative George Kunkel, of this city, who has been urged by friends in the legislature to be a candidate for speaker of the next house, announces that he will not be a candidate. He will support Henry F. Walton, of Philadelphia, and has called a meeting of the Dauphin county delegation to indorse Walton's candidacy.

UNDER SPEAKER REED.

Gossip as to the Committees Should the Maine Man be Chosen.

MR. BURROWS THE PARTY LEADER.

Should He Fail in His Ambition to Succeed Senator Patton the Michigan Congressman Will Probably Head the Ways and Means Committee.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The house committees which are expected to be of the greatest importance in the next congress are those on the ways and means, appropriations, rules, banking and currency, coinage, weights and measures, rivers and harbors and public buildings and grounds. The first three named always head the list in order of importance. The others are expected to assume importance in the next congress because of the especial conditions which will prevail during that congress.

The banking committee will certainly be one of the most important committees in the entire list if there should be an effort, as is hinted there may be, to revise the currency laws and change the present system. Such legislation as this would place the committee dealing with it alongside of the ways and means committee. The probability of an effort to secure silver legislation, and the probability that the Republican party when it comes into power in the house will want to formulate a policy in this question will have the effect also of advancing the coinage committee to a position of first rank.

The river and harbor and public buildings committees will have the delicate task of providing for public improvements so far as a committee of the house can accomplish this work. With so many new men as there will be on the Republican side in the next congress, and all of them feeling that it will be necessary for them to make a showing to their constituents, there will naturally be a pretty general clamor for postoffice buildings, custom houses and river and harbor improvements. While the Republican party has always shown a disposition towards liberality in public improvements, there is a probability of an effort to hold their miscellaneous appropriations as low as possible.

The Republicans at present have six of the seventeen members of the committee on rivers and harbors, and all of their members have been re-elected except Mr. Henderson, of Illinois. With Henderson out of the way Hermann, of Oregon, takes first place in the Republican membership of the committee, with Stephenson of Michigan, Hooker of New York, Grosvenor of Ohio and Reyburn of Pennsylvania following in the order named. It cannot, of course, be known whether the next speaker will follow the seniority rule. If he should Mr. Hermann would become chairman.

Mr. Milliken, of Maine, heads the Republican membership of the committee on public buildings, and the chances are that if Mr. Reed becomes speaker Mr. Milliken will be chairman of this committee. Mr. Morse, of Massachusetts, is the only other Republican member of the committee returned.

Only three of the old Republican members of the committee on banking and currency are re-elected. They are Messrs. Walker of Massachusetts, Russell of Connecticut and Johnson of Indiana. Mr. Walker is the senior Republican member, and his chances of securing the chairmanship would be the best.

Of the six re-sent Republican members of the committee on coinage, weights and measures five have been re-elected to the Fifty-fourth congress. They are, in the order named: Stone of Pennsylvania, Johnson of North Dakota, Dingley of Maine, Hager of Iowa and Aldrich of Illinois. Mr. Stone would naturally become chairman of the committee, but it is suggested that in case of Mr. Reed's becoming speaker he might have a personal policy with reference to silver which he would want to pursue, and in that event might want Mr. Dingley, of his own state, as the leader of this committee.

In the natural order of events Hon. J. G. Burrows, of Michigan, will become chairman of the ways and means committee, with Mr. Reed in the speaker's chair, and there is little doubt that he will be given this important post, which carries with it the Republican leadership on the floor of the house, if he fails in his ambition to succeed Senator Patton to his seat in the senate. With Mr. Reed in the speaker's chair, and Mr. Burrows in the senate, there would be only three Republican members of the present committee left to choose from, these being Messrs. Payne of New York, Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Hopkins of Illinois.

D. B. Henderson, of Iowa, is the ranking Republican member of the appropriations committee, with Cogswell of Massachusetts, Bingham of Pennsylvania, Dingley of Maine, Grout of Vermont and Cannon of Illinois coming in the order named. There is likely to be a conflict between the first and last named of this list. While Henderson is now the ranking Republican member of the committee, Cannon was chairman in the Fifty first congress, and will probably ask to have his old place back. It is possible that neither Cannon or Henderson will get the place, for in the event of Burrows becoming chairman of the ways and means committee the probabilities are strong that the caucus will demand the chairmanship of the next most important, which would be that of appropriations. In that contingency General Cogswell's chances for being promoted to the head of the committee would be excellent.

If Mr. Reed becomes speaker of the house the Republican membership of the committee on rules will probably be composed of himself and the chairman of the appropriations and ways and means committees. He pursued this plan in the fifty first congress, and there is reason to believe that he would revive it rather than imitate Mr. Crisp by more generally distributing the honors.

THE SOLACING WEED.

Civilized Men Take to Tobacco as a Level Above the Lower Animals.

In the opinion of about four in every five men the essential difference between man and the inferior animals is that man smokes tobacco. Occasionally a precocious monkey has been taught to drink beer and smoke a pipe—Old Tom in the London zoo, for instance—but this only emphasizes the exclusive humanness of smoking. The monkey is nearest kin to man and is in full progress toward the human state. As the ultra temperance lecturers affirm, "A dog wouldn't smoke the vile weed." No other animal than superior man and the anthropoid ape will smoke. Perhaps in the civilized white world one man in five is the victim of some defect that disqualifies him for smoking. The defect may be a tendency to a cancerous growth, or it may be a wife or a mother-in-law. The remaining four are in the full enjoyment of all their faculties and the right to pursue happiness through a cloud of tobacco smoke.

Lack of opportunity to smoke is without doubt the most afflictive evil under which a majority of men suffer. A large proportion of men are employed in offices, stores and shops where rules against smoking are rigidly enforced. This is entirely proper. No superior smoker ever smokes while working. To do that is to debase the luxury and to take off the keen edge of the pleasure. It is intemperance and dissipation. The most expert wine tasters never drink to excess, but find that in moderation only does the palate retain its power to detect the delicate flavor. So with smoking. At night, after a few pipes or cigars have dulled the edge of appetite, it is allowable to smoke half a dozen with some violence to stimulate a jaded palate, but at other times pleasure goes with moderation. To smoke after a meal is the imperative demand of the whole system. Not to be able to do this is to incur endless disorders of the nervous system, the stomach and the entire digestive apparatus and sometimes to invite progressive decay of the mental faculties. There is no better preparation for a day's work for the smoker than a pipe or cigar after breakfast.—New York Advertiser.

BRASS SIGNS IN NEW YORK.

Probably Half a Million Dollars Invested In This Sort of Ornamentation.

A stroll along Broadway early in the morning discloses an army of men engaged in polishing the brass signs that flank the entrance of the stores, and the same sight may be noted on Sixth avenue or any of the other principal business streets. Walk down one of these thoroughfares an hour later, and the rays of the sun, reflected from thousands of burnished surfaces, made bright for the day by vigorous rubbing, dance about you and dazzle your eyes. In fact, commercial New York is a city of brass signs.

The other day a South Fifth avenue maker was asked if he could give an estimate of the amount of money invested in these "standing ads." of metal.

"Well," he replied, "a door sign of brass costs from $25 to $150, according to its size, lettering and border designs. Of course you can get small office signs for less money, but I am speaking of those used by merchants, bankers and that class of people. Take some large stores, and you will notice they are literally bordered with brass signs at the entrances and long signs beneath the big show windows. A display of that sort represents an outlay of from anywhere between $500 and $2,000. From the local business our firm does and from a general knowledge of how our rivals are getting on, I have no hesitancy in saying that commercial New York city has $500,000 invested in brass signs."—New York World.

Horsepower of the World's Engines.

A steam "horsepower" is equivalent to the actual strength of three horses of the average weight and size, and each horse represents the strength of seven men of the average weight of 154 pounds. The total horsepower of the engines of the world (not including locomotives, of which there are 105,000, with a total horsepower of 3,000,000) is 46,000,000, which represents all the force that could be exerted by 1,000,000,000 men, or more than twice the total working population of the entire globe. Four-fifths of the power machines now in active service have been made during the past 25 years. This country has the highest amount of horsepower, 7,500,000; England comes second, with 7,000,000; Germany third, 4,500,000, only two other countries, France and Austria-Hungary, having engines representing over 1,000,000 horsepower, that of France being reckoned at 3,000,000 and Austria-Hungary at 1,500,000. The above figures are for 1891 and are the very latest on that subject.—St. Louis Republic.

The Inventor of the Torpedo.

Mr. Brennan, the inventor of the torpedo, commenced life as a watchmaker in Australia and at once developed a genius for invention. From first to last this torpedo, which has proved so profitable to him, cost him 18 years of hard work. The torpedo was sold to the British government for $150,000, and to insure the secret of the mechanism being kept each portion of this fearful engine of destruction is made in a different shop, the workmen are searched on entrance and leaving the building, and Mr. Brennan and his partner are the only persons who fix the torpedo gear or fuse for working.—London Globe.

Much Improved.

From the report of a missionary to Africa:

"My congregation has increased in so far [illegible] that they now can wear clothes and boots."—Reading (Pa.) Times.

The word "Nile" is a compound of an Indian word meaning river, and of water and a Greek word meaning city.

COTTOLENE.

It's Provoking

to be deceived; it's annoying to have a poor article of shortening. You can avoid both by seeing that your pail of COTTOLENE bears the trade mark—steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—and be sure of having delicious, healthful food. Other manufacturers try to imitate COTTOLENE, that's the best reason why you want the original article.

CHOLLY'S CHIMES.

The Critic of Gotham's Four Hundred Rings a Few Changes.

I suppose society will breathe more freely now that it is assured that its soi disant leader's name is not to be dragged through the courts.

Ward McAllister has wisely decided to settle his son Heyward's affairs with Mrs. McCall by paying her a lump sum to slump, to levant, to skip.

The sum paid is not mentioned, but whatever it was you may be sure that it was a grind on the old man to shell out.

It seems preposterous that such a steady going old pacer or loper should have an unregenerate son who is also so attractive that a "beautiful and well known society lady" takes up the cudgels in his behalf and bluffs off the other woman on her own grounds.

It was a curious incident all round, and although I am not always of Mac's way of thinking I am sure that he has done the correct thing in this instance.

So has Mrs. McCall.

Mrs. Robert Abbe, who was Mrs. Courtland Palmer before she married the clever young physician who is now her husband, and her daughter, Miss Eva Palmer, are going on a visit to George Vanderbilt at Asheville, N. C.

The Palmers, who are all learned and studious, and George Vanderbilt, who is extremely bookish, are old friends, and nothing could be more natural than the proposed visit.

Yet one of those infernal busybodies who make it their business to start false rumors sees in this visit a positive determination on the part of the youngest Vanderbilt to marry Miss Palmer.

So for about the twentieth time we have this very retiring young fellow engaged to be married, and then the other idiots take the matter up and solemnly argue that it is a very suitable and altogether immense match.

Of course there is not a word of truth in it.

The almighty American dollar has received a very severe setback in the case of Thomas Nevins, a newly rich man who went abroad not long ago with the intention of buying Killeen castle, near Dublin, and of flying the stars and stripes from its turret day and night.

The Earl of Fingal, who owns the castle, was in financial straits, and Nevins thought he could drive a bargain with him.

Rather than sell, the earl has raised enough pounds to pay off the mortgages, and the dollar is not in it.

A fine old Irish gentleman is the Earl of Fingal, and the American, Mr. Nevins, is—well, let us say, a failure.—Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

CRISP A BAD SHOT.

He Fired Balls at a Negro's Head, but Couldn't Hit It.

In a description of the Hawkinsville (Ga.) fair the Atlanta Constitution says:

"The head of a Pulaski negro, stuck through the hole of a canvas, on which was painted a large cut watermelon, with the negro's head in the heart, was too much of an attraction for even Speaker Crisp, Major A. O. Bacon and Senator Pat Walsh to resist. They had just finished their political speeches and were taking in the side shows when the eloquent fakir who manages the imitation melon, and real negro with a skull apparently of steel, sang:

"'Come up, gentlemen, and try three throws each at the head of the Georgia coon! Three throws for 5 cents! Every time you hit the negro you get a good cigar. Ah, gentlemen, there's luck to the man who hits that negro's head. The man who can do it can go to the United States senate. Gentlemen, I'll guarantee the senatorship to the lucky thrower!'

"'Well, Pat, I'll try it with you,' said Major Bacon. 'And, Crisp, you must be in this.'

"The statesmen didn't shuck their coats, but they chucked balls at that negro's head with as much enthusiasm and good natured jollity as they have canvassed the state for the Democracy. The negro proved an expert dodger, however, and not a ball touched the senatorial goal, but the statesmen had lots of fun out of it, and one of them may do some luckier throwing when the legislature meets."

A Commoner's Audacity.

A couple of weeks ago Colonel Fitzgeorge, son of Field Marshal the Duke of Canabridge, went shooting in Bushby park with some of the Teck princes. He managed to discharge the contents of his gun among the beaters. The newspapers duly reported the accident, whereupon the colonel wrote to The Times, complaining of exaggeration and explaining the thing as quite a trifling affair. "Three pellets just grazed one man, and another had a few pellets in his legs, but no harm was done." One of the injured men now says he has a 10 inch wound in the thigh and is still in bed. His views as to the amount of harm done naturally differ from the colonel's, and he proposes to take the opinion of a jury. Thereupon polite society is much concerned at the audacity of a common laboring man setting the law in motion against the son of the queen's cousin, particularly as a prince or two may be subjected to the inconvenience and indignity of going upon the witness stand.—London Letter.

A Good Deal of a Sinecure.

There is one office in Michigan which is a good deal of a sinecure. It is that of the probate judge of Manitou county. The present judge has held the office for six years, and during all that time had but one case before him. As his salary is $600 a year, that one case has paid him $1,200.—Philadelphia Ledger.

As a Matter of Course.

The double-blow fellows in New York city and Boston will, as a matter of course, defeat England in any little trouble she may have with France.—Buffalo News.

A SURGEON'S KNIFE

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that

RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is removed without cutting in nine cases of ten. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

OUT OF THE FLAMES.

A DEPARTMENT CAPTAIN TALKS ABOUT FIRE ESCAPES.

Some Sensible Advice to Women—What to Do When Caught In a Burning Building—It Is Well to Know How to Take Care of Yourself at Such a Time.

"Wrap the rope around the body, always put one hand below and one hand above on the rope, then slide," was the advice of Captain McAdam in reply to my query of how to get out of a burning building.

The question was provoked by seeing a number of blue coated firemen go speeding down a rope suspended from the sixth story of a building. They were testing fire escapes, and their ease and confidence made me wonder why some of this level headedness couldn't be imparted to women—or men either, for that matter—in cases of emergency.

So I went inside the great, admirably kept drilling rooms and interviewed the captain.

"Well," he added, "you can preach to women about the way to use ropes and fire escapes, but when a person is scared out of her senses you can't expect her to do calmly what she would tremble to do in time of safety.

"Why, I don't dare take a raw man and send him down from the sixth story for his trial. If I did, he would never appear again. I get him 'broke in' by commencing at the first, then increasing his slide, not reaching the seventh story for two weeks."

"Then you don't think it silly for people to forget all common sense in time of fire?" I asked.

"Never. No one realizes more than I the horrible feeling of being caught in a trap. Fire seems to demoralize the bravest. Women are just as brave as men, for I have known a man to rush down stairs, leaving a wife and five children, when if all of Hagenbeck's animals were placed in a field and his child among them he would dash over the fence alone to its rescue."

"What's best to remember?"

"First, how to use the ropes that are placed in hotel rooms and should be in every private residence. They are attached firmly to a link in the window. Should the rope be without appliances, simply drop it out of the window; then, sitting on the sill, place the rope around the body under the arms. Make no loop, only pass the long end of the rope over the other in front of the chest. As you lower yourself place the right hand firmly on the end of the rope, which reaches to the ground. This prevents the rope from slipping off the body. Throw the weight of the body on that hand and guide with the left, which is on the upper end of the rope. The friction of the ropes passing each other over the chest prevents a too rapid descent, and thus the hands are saved from severe blistering, for as soon as the rope cuts through the flesh man or woman will let go; the agony is too great. In descending keep the body near the wall and break the slide by scraping the feet along the walls."

"Suppose the fire broke out from a window below while the person is coming down—then what?"

"The only thing is to swing close to the wall until the heat is too intense, then give the body a herculean push outward by the feet from the wall. The momentum will send the body flying out into space, clear of the flames; then slide just as fast as rope and gravitation will take you. Even if the hands are cut. It is the only safe measure. There is no time to take any other precaution."

Captain McAdam, however, does not approve of the plain rope. Of course the iron fire escape is every fireman's preference, if it is free, but sometimes it supports a mob that is equally dangerous. Again, certain occupants are cut off from it by fire, so next to this comes a rope, attached to an iron pulley, which in turn is fastened to a hook in the window. One end of the rope is thrown to the ground, the other has a small loop which can be quickly pulled to fit the body. It is slipped under the arms and the body lowered. No holding on is necessary, for it is the primitive science of a bucket on a pulley line going down a well. The rope goes around several small wheels inside the pulley, which materially check the run of the rope, limiting it to ten feet in ten seconds. The noose can't slip off the body. The wheels must go around as long as the weight is there, and, to quote the captain, "Kick and holler as she will, she's bound to come down."

"In case of being caught by the fire, captain, what is the best thing to do? Put a wet blanket around yourself and run through it?"

"Theoretically that is fine," he answered, "but remember that it takes buckets of water to soak a blanket, and if there is not a bath tub near to accomplish this no few pitchers are adequate. So next best is to wrap the head up in coat or anything woolen. This keeps out the fire and not the air from the lungs, and the greater danger comes from the former being inhaled.

"Should the smoke commence to fill the room and you want to crawl to another part of the building, drop on your hands and knees and crawl as close to the floor as possible, for the smoke goes first to the top and to the floor last, so that much time is secured. If all escape seems cut off, put on woolen clothes, hold a piece of flannel over the mouth and nose, stand at the most prominent window and call for help. A fireman will speedily come by ways you never thought of and deliver you."—H. Hallmark in Chicago Record.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month. Office hours from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.

MONDAY, NOV. 19, 1894.

W. J. H. Traynor, of Detroit, National President of the A. P. A., has issued a manifesto in which he says that the Republicans won at the recent election because their candidates received the support of his association. He boasts that in Michigan half the members of the Legislature elected are members of the A. P. A. and that in Illinois, outside of Chicago, the association had things its own way.

Notices of contest have already been filed by twenty six Republican candidates for Congress who were defeated at the polls, and the probabilities are that before the list is complete the seats of half the Democratic members-elect will be contested. The action of the Republican party, whenever it has had control of the House, in turning out Democrats and putting in Republicans, is responsible for the large number of contests now announced, and if the Republican majority adheres to party precedent, many of the contestants will not contest in vain.

If we are to be plunged into a sea of trouble by attempted readjustment of our currency system, the people will, sooner or later, learn to put the blame where the blame belongs. Had there been no Sherman silver purchase law, there would have been no currency emergency. Under the provisions of that law silver certificates to the amount of $330,000,000, and treasury notes to the amount of $151 000,000 have been emitted by the government. Before these emissions all the government money in circulation was $346 000,000 of greenbacks, which it would have been easy to keep at par with gold. When on top of this was piled $451,000,000 more of paper it became another matter. Hence this trouble which confronts us.

The Board of Supervisors, which began its regular sessions, to-day, at Goshen, is so strongly Republican that all responsibility for the work of the session must rest upon the majority. It is to be hoped that that majority will be prudent and economical in the expenditure of the people's money and courageous enough to deal with unwelcome conditions in a businesslike way. It is known that the Board has to face a worse than empty county treasury, the appropriations made, last year, not having been large enough and the Treasurer having been forced to borrow very considerable sums with which to meet current expenses. It seems certain that the county tax levy, this year, will be much higher than it was last year, no matter how much of an effort is made to keep down expenses.

The New York Tribune is still engaged in the good work, the patriotic and inspiring work, of writing down the country's business. For confirmation of this, read its to-day's article on "Money and Business," and the article in kindred spirit, under caption of "The President's Position." In the first, the writer dwells at length on the low prices for wheat and cotton and does his level best to give his readers the "demnition blues." The fact that over-production and world wide depression are the responsible factors for these misfortunes is altogether ignored by him, while he proceeds with labored effort to make out a case of responsibility for them against the Democratic Congress. In the second named article, any fool can see the purpose of the writer,—that it is to throw discredit upon the loan the Government is negotiating, and thereby add fuel to the fire of business troubles. The Tribune is doing good service for the country.

GOVERNOR MORTON'S STAFF.

Many Applicants for a Few Positions—A Private to be Made Inspector-General.

There is considerable wire pulling for positions on Governor Morton's staff and from present indications there will be several hundred applicants for the twenty positions.

The only candidate sure of an appointment is said to be Private Fred McLewee, of the Seventh Regiment, who will be selected to perform the duties of Inspector-General.

There is a general desire among officers of the National Guard for the re-appointment of Adjutant-General Porter, and a petition that is being freely signed will be presented to the Governor requesting the appointment of Brig. Gen. Whitlock, General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

BURIAL OF THE CZAR.

The Last Sad Rites—Imposing Scenes and Ceremonies.

BY UNITED PRESS

ST PETERBURG, Nov. 19.—The morning of the Czar's funeral day dawned dark and rainy.

The streets in the vicinity of the Cathedral of St Peter and St. Paul were crowded In the cathedral, a most distinguished company was assembled, the royalty of the empire, princes representing other countries, foreign diplomats and others.

The royal family were escorted to seats at the foot of the coffin All others stood during the mass for the dead. Each mourner and visitor held a lighted taper during the services.

After the mass, the special service for the Czar was held. Then the Czar kissed the lips of his father and the other members of the imperial family and those related to it by blood and marriage did the same and then the casket was closed and borne on the shoulders of the Grand Dukes to the entrance to the imperial vault, which had been opened in the pavement and a moment later the mortal remains of the dead Czar had been lowered to their last resting place.

As soon as the burial took place, flags were run to full mast, a royal salute was fired, bands played lively airs and the city took on a holiday air

Requiem services in memory of the dead Czar were held, this morning, in London, Paris and Berlin.

THE SENSIBLE VIEW.

WOMAN'S SENSITIVE ORGANISM

Does Not Permit Her to Do What Men Do, and She Ought Not To Try.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

You might as well know that you have a wonderfully sensitive and peculiar organism. You ought to know that from the moment the girl is changed into a woman, the matter of first physical importance to her is the regularity with which nature purifies her system. That all through life this is of the very first importance to her, and that neglect in this direction means misery in every direction

Stop and reason out what happens when nature is balked in its efforts The blood takes up the poisonous particles, carries them to the lungs, and decay follows. It carries them to the heart, and before long the organ is weakened, and your courage and strength vanish. It carries them to the brain, and before long the wildest fancies run riot, you think you have every known disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy whose power over this killing disease is acknowledged throughout the world.

It destroys poisonous germs, cleanses the system, strengthens the womb, and makes a strong, hopeful, happy woman out of a physical wreck.

Mrs. J. A. Rice, of Florence, Ky., whose portrait we are permitted to publish, is only one of many thousands who owe their health to the Vegetable Compound, and are doing all they can to help other women to believe that the same health and happiness will come to them with the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicines. She says:

"I suffered eight years from woman's early troubles I could find no permanent relief until, one year ago I tried Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief then came with it almost immediately, and at this time I am a well woman.

"I absolutely know, not only by my own experience, but by others also, that it is a harmless and sure remedy for irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness of the stomach, sick headache, and female complaints generally

VILLAGE VS. RAILROAD COMPANY.

Erie Employes and Workmen on Washingtonville's Water Works in Collision.

During last summer operations were begun to bring water from Slaughter Lake to the village of Washingtonville. It was necessary to lay the pipe under the Erie tracks at the road crossing, but the company objected.

The village officials decided to put the pipe through on Sunday, but the Erie people got wind of their intention. The Greycourt wreckers with an engine were sent down to prevent it.

The wreckers attempted to fill in the trench, which was already dug. The boss of the wreckers and the boss of the water works gang got into an altercation, which resulted in the throwing of the railroad man into the ditch.

The experiment was tried of keeping the engine standing over the trench discharging steam into it to prevent the men from working, but the crossing could only be blocked five minutes, and when the engine moved away a horse and wagon was kept moving back and forth over the crossing.

The engine finally got the crossing again, and a stream of hot water from the boiler was turned into the trench, scalding a workman on the neck. A fellow workman picked up a rock and threatened to strike the engineer if he did not move away at once. The Erie people then gave up the fight and the pipes were laid.

Whether this is the end of the trouble remains to be seen.

JESSE HANSEE AGAIN ARRESTED.

He Failed to Appear in a Jersey Court When Wanted and is Now In Trenton Prison.

Jesse Hansee, who was recently released from Ludlow Street Jail, where he had been confined pending the hearing of the charge of pension frauds, was arrested in Hoboken, Saturday, as a fugitive from justice and taken to Trenton, where he was lodged in State prison.

Hansee was arrested in New Jersey for pension frauds, about a year ago, and released on $5,000 bail, but when the time for his appearance came he was behind the bars in Ludlow street.

After his release from the latter prison he gave out that he was going to sue the Government, but he has doubtless by this time abandoned that idea.

IN THE RAILROAD WORLD.

—A new air brake has been invented that will bring to a standstill a train running at the rate of sixty miles an hour within a distance of 1 300 feet, as compared with 1,700 feet with the present brake. The new brake differs only in the addition of an extra or re-enforcing valve, which can be attached to all the present brakes, thus obviating the construction of entirely new ones.

Not So Fussy as the Pharisees

From the Poughkeepsie News-Press.

A Poughkeepsie mother who is a firm believer in Bible readings for young children, rebuked her little seven year old son the other day for appearing at the table with dirty hands. "Oh, mamma," he wearisomely replied, "I'm not so fussy as the Pharisees. I don't believe in washing my hands every time before I eat a meal.

Many Sick Horses

There has been of late much sickness among horses in Kingston, many of which have suffered from a disease of the bowels, which has been so prevalent that it is regarded as epidemic. One veterinary surgeon has treated seventy-two cases in a month.

Organ Recital To night.

Mr. W. J. Stevens will give an organ recital at the Second Presbyterian Church, this evening, for the benefit of the Junior League. A fine programme has been prepared. He will have the assistance of Messrs. Herbert Hirst tenor, G. W. Stevens baritone, Samuel Schellenberg violinist and others. Don't miss it.

The Electric Road to Walden.

The company which proposes to build an electric railroad from Orange Lake to Walden, has secured the consents of more than half the property along the proposed line, in the village of Walden as well as in the country. It is probable that part of the work of construction will be done this winter.

A DISTILLERY BURNED.

The Oldest in Orange County—For Many Years the Property of "Bev." Johnson.

The old sycamore distillery at East Coldenham was destroyed by fire Saturday night, about midnight. The cider mill standing near was also destroyed. The cider mill was run by a large engine and boiler which were ruined.

In the distillery were a quantity of whiskey that had not been guaged and several cisterns of cider.

This distillery was doubtless the oldest one in the county. It was operated for many years by the late "Bev." Johnson and became famous for the excellence of its product.

Since the death of Mr. Johnson the distillery has been operated by Alvah Terry, son of R. E Terry, of Montgomery, who purchased the property when the estate was settled up.

It is said there is an insurance of $3,000 on the property, but it will not cover the loss.

THE OLD LADIES' HOME.

A Request for Aid from Churches and Citizens During the Thanksgiving Season.

The managers of the Orange County Home for Aged Women respectfully solicit aid from the churches and citizens of the county for the Home during the present Thanksgiving season.

In order that the inmates may be enabled to participate in the blessings of the season, the managers trust that the public may feel prompted to contribute money or provisions for the use of the Home, not only on Thanksgiving Day but throughout the winter as well.

The managers trust that the response to their present appeal will be as generous as to those of previous years, which they are pleased to acknowledge as having been very gratifying indeed.

Articles may be left at the Home, 41 South street, this city.

Death of a Very Old Horse.

From Our Montgomery Correspondent

Last Spring, stories of who owned the oldest horse in the county, went the rounds of the newspapers. One was omitted. Mr. Chas. Mulliner owned a bay horse, called "Shiner," which was thirty-six years and eight months old, this month. He has not worked the old horse for the past year, but it kept in good condition until now. On Monday morning he ate a good breakfast, but died that afternoon.

A Receiver for the Prior Medicine Co.

A suit, brought by Chas. G. Baldwin, against the Prior Medicine Co., was heard by Judge Brown, in Special Term, at Newburgh, Saturday. On motion of plaintiff's attorney, Thomas Watts, Esq, was appointed receiver for the company. All the parties are residents of this city.

A Very Mean Theft.

Just as a fair in aid of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston, was closing, Saturday night, a thief raised a window behind one of the booths and, reaching in, stole a box containing the booth's receipts for the evening, about $20.

Robbed by Highwaymen.

A laboring man named Tribeck, who lives about a mile from Port Jervis, on the Coleville turnpike, while on his way home, Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock, was seized by two men and robbed of all his money, $4 and a silver watch.

A Small Wreck on the O. and W

A slight wreck occurred at 4:45 o'clock, this morning, on the O. and W. near Fish's Eddy. A draw bar of a gondola fell on the track, causing the wrecking of eight cars. Train 6 was delayed five hours. No one was injured.

Successful Hunters.

Messers. L. V. Bauer of Phillipsburgh, and C. R. Lang and Ed. Banheimer of the Lyon Brewery in New York, spent the most of the last three days of last week in hunting along the Wallkill, and report having killed 23 rabbits, 17 partridge, 5 woodcock and 3 grey squirrels.

Burglars Who Secured No Booty.

Burglars entered the office of Crane & Swayze on Henry street, Saturday night, but got no plunder. Since the firm was robbed some time ago, no money is ever left in the office safe or desks. Entrance was gained by cutting out a pane of glass and raising a window. The work was evidently done by tramps.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Sold by J. E. Mills, Middletown, N. Y.

A SHAKESPEREAN READING

The Midsummer Night's Dream to be Produced in This City.

The Young Men's Christian Association of our city, recognizing the need of a light standard of entertainments for all people, and especially young men, are seeking to bring in the best talent procurable and furnish entertainment of a high order this coming season. Everyone will remember the last Shakespearean recital and the large and delighted audience of cultured people, who showed their appreciation of the associations efforts. Arrangements have been made for Charles F. Underhill of Brooklyn to produce that beautiful drama "Midsummer Night's Dream" Friday evening December 7th, at the Second Presbyterian Church. Prof. W. J. Stevens will render the appropriate instrumental accompaniments, and Mrs. C. H Sweezy will sing during the programme This is a delightful and instructive combination.

A Dead Body Eaten by Rats

The body of an unknown man apparently about fifty-five years old was found in the hay in a remote corner of a hotel barn at Phœnicia, Ulster county, Friday. The body had apparently been in the barn for several months and had been almost eaten up by rats. A vial which was supposed to have contained laudanum was found near the body, which led to the belief that the man had committed suicide.

A Cold Wave Coming.

The Herald's weather prophet says a cold wave is coming and will probably reach here, to-night. It will be accompanied by snow and rain.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."
—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

ELDER TWIGG'S PHILOSOPHY.

How they comin? Oh, jest fair—
Fair to middlin.
Chuck to eat and duds to wear—
Uh-hu-m, fair to middlin.
I'm one them men who never get
Particularly overhet
When good or bad luck comes—and yet
I'm fair to middlin.

I figer things run jest about
From fair to middlin.
First and last, day in, day out,
Jest fair to middlin.
You'll find a smile for every tear,
And vicey versey, never fear.
The world keeps even—pretty near—
At fair to middlin.

It's better when you're that a-way—
Say fair to middlin,
And can keep happy, as I say,
At fair to middlin.
I claim a man don't have to choose
'Twixt paradise and the caboose.
You're jest as fat and lots more use
At fair to middlin.
—William Allen White in Kansas City Star.

A BELATED SOUL.

It was twilight. The wind howled, the snow fell fast, and little Martine lay dying.

"Alas!" wept the mother, "will the cure never come? Thou hast been a good child, and must thy unblessed soul wander without the gates of paradise? Ah, I can bear it no longer!" And she ran out into the night to find the laggard priest.

Martine shivered. She feared to die alone. But suddenly a tender voice breathed her name.

"Martine, knowest thou the good God confesses, through his angels, the souls of children?

"Tell me thy sins."

The girl raised her eyes and beheld a dim white form with folded wings and a bowed head rippled over with golden curls. And strength came to her to speak. She confessed her poor little faults bravely and bowed her head for absolution.

"Wait!" said the angel. "So thou hast stolen a rose colored kerchief from thy friend Babette?"

"Forgive!" murmured Martine.

"What hast thou done with this kerchief?"

"I have it here, beneath my pillow, monsignor."

"But why hast thou not returned it?"

"'Twill become me well on my deathbed," sighed the little Martine.

"Fie! Vain one!" cried the angel severely. "I see well thou dost not repent truly of this fault and must do penance ere I grant thee absolution.

"Rise!

"Take this kerchief and restore it to Babette!"

"But," exclaimed Martine, stupefied, "if my mother return with the cure, to seek me on my deathbed?"

"Teach not thy betters. I will assume thy shape. But mark the hour! St. Peter has orders to admit thee at dawn. Beware of being late, for I cannot assume thy soul's shape and seek entrance for thee to paradise. Neither can I claim my own place there until I give account of thee. I might be doomed to wander here on earth, or, in fact," he added impatiently, "no one can say what complications might arise."

"I will hasten!" cried Martine, springing from the bed. Dressing with haste, she wrapped herself in her warm cloak and ran joyously from the house. The snow ceased falling; the wind died among the trees; the stars came out and twinkled merrily. Then the moon rose, dimming the light of the stars, turning the icicles to diamonds and the frozen ground to glass. And Martine ran, danced, skipped and sang!

How beautiful was life and youth and health! Her limbs were as strong, her blood as warm, as before the fever laid its wasting hand upon her.

Alas! It is hard to die—at 16!

"It cannot be more than 7 o'clock," she thought, "and I have until daybreak." But she could not stay her dancing feet, and soon the lights of the village glimmered softly through the trees. There to the right lay the home of Babette! An instant more, and she stood upon the threshold.

"Martine! Dear Martine!" a chorus of gay voices greeted her. "Martine, we heard that you were ill and dying!"

Martine shuddered. "And so indeed I am," she thought sadly.

"Come with us, Martine," cried Babette. "Good M. Champagnel has offered us his barn for a dance, for it is the fete of our little Lucienne.

"Come!

"Surely thou art well enough to dance!"

"Nay!" exclaimed Martine, thrusting the kerchief into Babette's hand. "I have come to restore this, for indeed I have not long to live, only the short night!"

A burst of laughter interrupted her.

"Thou art mad, little one!" cried tall Pierre, the handsomest lad in the village. "Thy cheeks are as bright as the kerchief! But since thou hast but this night to live dance it through with me."

"Surely there is no harm in that," thought Martine. "I can still be home before the dawn."

Once the dance had begun she forgot her doubts and everything else, for she had a light foot, this little Martine! And the sky was already gray in the east when there came a sound of horses' hoofs and laughing voices, and the barn doors were flung wide open, and a band of gentlemen, richly dressed, appeared before the astonished peasants.

"Your prince, good people!" cried one of the gentlemen, "desires to look on your merrymaking!" And Martine saw in their midst a tall figure, in a cloak of white velvet, and with shining, golden curls.

"The angel!" she murmured, trembling.

But as the abashed peasants remained silent the prince threw off his velvet cloak, and stepping forth in his white doublet and hose he gave a sign to the musicians, and seizing the hand of little Martine led the dance himself. Soon all the peasant lads were frowning blackly against the wall, but their sweethearts trod a measure with the gallants of the court. And before the dance was done Martine would have died for love of the prince!

"Thou art beautiful, little one!" he whispered. "Wilt ride away with me?" And as she only blushed for answer he drew her past the doors, and placing her before him on the saddle rode like the wind to his chateau on the hills.

And with his kisses raining on her brow and lips Martine forgot her promise to return, forgot the angel who must die in her stead, forgot that Peter had orders to open the gates of paradise at earliest dawn!

And when the morning broke clear and red over the verdant hills the gates of another paradise had opened for little Martine.

A happy year ran away. Sometimes Martine thought of the poor mother, weeping at home. "But she must have wept as bitterly had I returned to die," thought Martine, and she smiled on her prince.

But one winter's morning, just a year from the day when Martine should have yielded up her soul, the prince rode forth never to return. His retainers sought him through forest and field, over hill and dale, along the course of every frozen stream—in vain!

Martine sobbed and sighed in the chateau on the hills, and on the night before another year was out she crept unseen from the castle gates, down the mountain side, and journeyed through the forest until she came to her childhood's home. She pushed open the door, but there was none within. Then she went wearily on to the churchyard, and there she found her mother's grave and beside it a little slab which bore the name "Martine."

"Alas! I am justly punished," she sobbed, throwing herself down on the little grave. "The good angel who gave his life for mine wanders, forever perhaps, without the gates of paradise. Forgive! Forgive! I have returned at last. Take thou my life and let my soul do penance for thy suffering and my sin!"

"Nay!" said a tender voice beside her, and raising her streaming eyes Martine saw again the dim form with folded wings and bowed head rippling over with golden curls. "I have been shut out from paradise, 'tis true, but by thy side, in mortal shape, my love, I found a paradise on earth!"

The white hands parted before the bowed face, and Martine beheld the adored countenance of her prince. With a glad cry she threw herself upon his breast, her eyes closed as if in peaceful slumber, and with a faint, sweet sigh her spirit took flight with his to the glorious gates of paradise.

"You have been a long time finding this one," said St. Peter.

"True, good Peter," replied the angel quietly, folding Martine tenderly under his wings, "but this soul had to be prepared for paradise!"

And together they floated hand in hand through the celestial gates.—From the French of Mendes.

He Won.

There is continued strife between the Bloomleighs. It is only a question now as to which has the greater wit, whether they get a separation from each other or not.

They fell to disputing the other morning as to which was more at fault for the lack of amenities so noticeable in their home, and after a series of small squabbles Bloomleigh proposed that they settle the question by each keeping count of the unpleasant remarks made by the other for a week. If he was victorious, he was to take his holiday at once, while if she won the contest she was to visit her mother without delay, thus leaving the victor in either case to the glorious and undisputed possession of the field. Mrs. Bloomleigh accepted the terms.

The effect was wonderful. Peace floated with outspread wings over the Bloomleigh domicile for six days. On the morning of the seventh Mr. Bloomliegh looked across the table at his wife and asked, "Have you checked any ill natured remarks against my account, my dear?"

"No," she replied. "You have controlled your tongue remarkably well. Have you any against me?"

"Three hundred and twelve," he remarked calmly.

"What!" she exclaimed. "That cannot be. I have not said a single thing I've felt like saying to you for a week."

"I know it," said Bloomleigh. "You said them to the cook. They had to come out, of course. I'll start tomorrow."—London Tit-Bits.

In Our Dreams.

The professor of psychology was conversing with Mr. Higgins, the grocer, as that worthy man was wrapping up five pounds of coffee for the professor.

"Did you ever notice, Mr. Higgins," remarked the professor, "that what occurs to you in dreams never seems to be at all strange or out of the ordinary?"

"Come to think of it, professor," replied Mr. Higgins, "I have, but I never give it much study. Now that you mention it I recollect several dreams I have had that seemed to be right enough until I waked up and got to thinking about 'em."

"Ah," beamed the professor, "that is interesting. Tell me about them."

"Well," and Mr. Higgins shoved the wrapped up coffee across the counter to the professor, "they didn't amount to no great deal, I guess. I only dreamed that my wife couldn't talk."—Detroit Free Press.

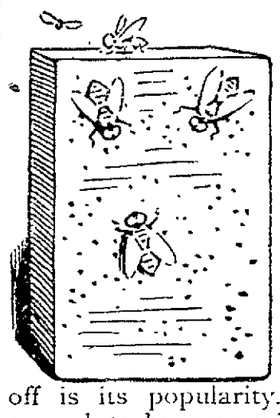
The Truth of It.

Teacher—Johnny, can you define for us the difference between "caution" and "cowardice?"

Johnny—Yessum. When you're scart to go out on a boat and stay home for fear it'll sink and the boat comes in all right, it's "cowardice."

Teacher—Well?

Johnny—And if you're scart and stay home and the boat does sink, then it's "caution."—Chicago Record.



"Well,"

said the bright woman who had asked for Pearline, to the grocer who wanted to sell her some imitation of it, "whether you do sell more of these other things or not, there must be something in Pearline which makes the flies avoid it. I notice that all the Pearline packages are clean and fresh. All the others are fly-specked!"

This is a true story. Everything is true that we print about Pearline. The thing in Pearline that keeps flies off is its popularity. It doesn't stay on the shelves long enough to become soiled. When women want washing made easy, without any risk of harm, they must have Pearline.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 427 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find no one until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

A FAIR RETURN.

'Twas after the play as we bowled along
In the carriage. Ah, how well
There lingers now in my heart of hearts
The magic of that spell!

I dared not speak in an uttered word
The thought in my heart that night,
But gazed in her eyes, and I felt she knew,
And I thrilled with wild delight.

Then it was that I dared as we sped along
To touch her hand with mine
Under the robe, and I thrilled again
With ecstasy divine.

And I pressed it gently. Alas for me!
For later on, I own,
I found I'd pressed not my dear one's hand,
But that of her chaperon.

Oh, reader dear, pray blame me not.
This shows in me no lack.
I squeezed the wrong hand, it is true,
But, then, she squeezed mine back.
—Tom Masson in New York Sun.

Fun For the Plain Girls.

They had certainly been rivals, and when she came to call the two plain girls who had dropped in to offer their congratulations decided not to go yet. The hostess greeted her warmly and gave her a chair facing the light, and then the two plain girls rejoiced that they had not departed the first time they rose to go. It was sure to be interesting.

"How well you are looking, dear!" said the hostess. "Your hair is really much more becoming than when it was its natural color."

"How kind of you to say it, dear, especially when your own blondining turned out so badly! By the way, you were not at Genevieve's luncheon. What a pity that she forgot you! I'm sure she didn't leave you out intentionally."

"Oh, I couldn't have gone anyway. I —I had another engagement." The two plain girls giggled audibly.

"Oh, well, then, it wasn't so bad, after all. Still I told all the girls who were there how mean I thought it was of Genevieve to leave you out when you had so little pleasure."

"Thanks, but my pleasure is never dependent on dissipation. How pretty those magenta flowers on your hat are! What a pity the color is so trying!"

"Yes, of course you won't dare to wear it. Were you at Ida's tea yesterday?"

"No; I haven't been anywhere of late."

"Really, it is too bad to be left out in that way. I shall ask Jessie to be sure to send you a card for her reception. It will be quite a crush. She is simply asking everybody."

"Don't trouble yourself, dear. You know I don't care to visit Jessie. Besides my time is really not my own now. I'"

"Oh, well, then'"—

"Yes; Horace is so foolishly devoted to me. You know that we are to be married in January!"

She didn't know it, and she couldn't help changing color, but she rallied nobly.

"Why, no, indeed!" she cried. "I am so glad to hear it! The poor fellow was so distressed when I told him in August that he really must give up hope. I've felt quite guilty ever since, and now I'm so glad that you have consented to console him."

And the two plain girls got up and said they really must go now, they had such a lot of calls to make.—Chicago Tribune.

Anecdotes of Dr. Holmes.

In the older days of the Harvard medical school, when funds were scarce and professors scarcer, Dr. Holmes was the lecturer on anatomy, physiology, medical chemistry and a few other subjects. One day the president of the college met him in the street and congratulated him on his then recent election to a professional chair of medicine.

"Chair!" flashed out the doctor. "You're mistaken, my dear sir. It isn't a chair of medicine that I occupy. It's a whole settee."

The second tale is also a medical one and relates to a meeting of the leading physicians of a bygone generation. They were all, except Holmes, big men physically as well as mentally, and for some time the little doctor walked disconsolately about amid his six foot colleagues. Then, jingling the loose change in his pocket, he said calmly:

"Do you know, gentlemen, I feel like a 3 cent piece among a lot of pennies?"—Boston Budget.

TESTIFYING FOR MUNYON

A Prominent Business Man Tells He Was Cured.

Frank C. Hartwell, of the firm of Hartwell & Bainbridge, 351 River street, Albany, N.Y., says: "I have used Munyon's Rheumatism Remedy and was completely cured. I suffered from rheumatism very badly for years, and was cured in one week with this remedy. My general health has been improved and I feel like a new man altogether."

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism can be cured in from one to five days. It speedily cures shooting pains, sciatica, lumbago and all rheumatic pains in the back, hips and loins. It seldom fails to give relief after one or two doses, and almost invariably cures before one bottle has been used.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease which are sold by all druggists mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

THE BOARD OF EXCISE.

A New Question—The Board Uncertain of Its Powers.

The Board of Excise held a meeting, Saturday night, and the license of Robert Wengatz for the "Office" on Depot street was transferred to Argus Cameron.

Mr. Wengatz endeavored to secure a license for the Cottage Cafe', formerly occupied by H. E Austin. The latter, however, refused to sell or surrender the license held by him, and the Board adjourned without granting a license. Mr. Austin claims that he has consulted a lawyer and is acting upon his advice. The Board was not certain of its powers in the matter and will consult the City Attorney in regard to revoking the license held by Mr. Austin and granting one to Mr. Wengatz.

RITUALISM IN KINGSTON.

The Use of Incense Begun in One Episcopal Church and Condemned from the Pulpit of Another.

Rev. Lewis T. Wattson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Kingston, yesterday, began the burning of incense at his services as he had previously announced he would.

Opposition to this innovation has been increasing among the parishioners, and yesterday there were many empty pews and a number of the best singers were absent from the choir.

At the Church of the Holy Spirit in the same city, Rector Chas. J. Adams preached on "Incense," and many of St John's Church's members were present to hear him.

Among other things he said:

"The tendencies of all undeveloped people is to lay stress upon the externals of religion. There is no reference in the New Testament to the use of incense, and Christ and His apostles had more important matters to think about and live for. If we use incense we must also conform to the customs of the Hebrew Church. We must offer annual sacrifice; we must reinstitute circumcision."

A SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

A Newark Man Asks to Be Freed from His Wife, Who Was a Walden Girl.

Charles F. McLaughlin, of Newark, has brought an action for divorce from his wife, charging her with infidelity.

The latter's maiden name was Margaret L. Cortwright. She lived in Walden in this county. McLaughlin met her while working in the Walden knife works and they were married in that village on Christmas day, 1892.

Chas. W. Toothill, a good looking young man of Walden, is named as co-respondent.

SUIT AGAINST THE WALKILL VALLEY.

The Jury Renders a Verdict of No Cause of Action.

The case of Daniel A. Shafer, of Montgomery, against the Wallkill Valley Railroad for damages to the extent of $1,000, occupied the attention of court all day, Friday. The plaintiff claimed that a locomotive had struck his team, permanently injuring one horse and ruining the wagon. Mr. Cassedy, attorney for the railroad, showed by several witnesses that had the plaintiff's driver shown care there would have been no accident. The jury rendered a verdict of no cause for action.

JAMES A. HERNE'S "SHORE ACRES."

The Great New York Success at the Casino. To-Night.

"How will it go in New York," was the cry about "Shore Acres," after Boston and a few New England cities had passed upon Mr. Hearne's beautiful play. It went there like all other good plays, and a run of over 250 nights has been credited to the piece. Think of a season's run in New York's most fashionable play house, Daly's Theatre, for a New England play. It was a great thing for "Shore Acres," and assures the success of the drama throughout the English speaking world. The metropolitan critics, with but a single exception, warmly commended the play and all wrote about "Uncle Nathan'l," enthusiastically. What Mr. Herne most appreciated, however, was the many kind letters he received from all classes of theatregoers. Among them was one from an eminent minister, who said "Shore Acres" was a greater sermon than he could preach. Yet there is not one word of religion in the play, nor is there any attempt made to point out its morality. "Shore Acres" will be seen at the Casino, this evening.

IN RECORDER'S COURT.

A Neighborhood Quarrel Two Plain Drunks Disposed Of.

The attention of the Recorder was occupied, this morning, in listening to the testimony in the case of Fannie Wern vs. Margaret Brown, Eunice Brown and Nettie Hasbrouck. Mrs. Wern complained that the others had used abusive, threatening and insulting language toward her The story told by her was most disgusting, and was met by denials and counter-charges by the other women two of whom are white and one colored. The Recorder listened patiently to the filthy testimony, and finally dismissed the case. If one-tenth of the stories told is true, life in Benjamin street, where they all reside, is of a very shady character, and the quicker the whole street is cleaned out the better it will be for the whole community.

Two plain drunks were before the Recorder, this morning, each of whom paid a fine of $3.

A lad named Stevens was in police court, this morning, upon a charge of throwing a brick or stone and striking a boy named Barnes upon the head. The latter was in court with a bandage around his head, but he could not swear positively that the missile which struck him was thrown by Stevens. The latter said he had thrown a stone, but did not know whether it had struck the Barnes boy or not. The case was thrown out, and both boys were reprimanded.

Stirring Up the Italian Colony—School Closed on Account of Scarlet Fever—Change of Teachers—Would Not Vote.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Our village blacksmith, B. Hennion, stirred up the Italian colony, the other day He was looking for a lost horse blanket. A constable, with a search warrant, was necessary, but he got the blanket. The Italians claimed to have found the blanket in the road.

—Eatontown district school is closed on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever.

—School District No. 3, locally known as the Clark district, is now being taught by Miss Almeda Green, in place of Miss Louisa Howard, who resigned.

—Greenville township was thoroughly canvassed before election. The person representing the Democratic Town Committee personally saw almost all the Democratic voters and arranged for the transportation of those who had no means of getting to the polls, yet it is said that fully one-third of the Democratic voters stayed at home. There are many reasons why this should not have been.

GOOD BREAD,
BETTER BREAD,
BEST BREAD.

While spring wheat flour is good, the best bread is made from Winter Wheat Flour, of which the "A. No. 1 Patent" occupies front rank.

Two loaves of Bread made from this flour will go as far as three loaves made from spring wheat flour
